A Sentimental Journey Through France and Italy is a novel by Laurence Sterne, written and first published in 1768, as Sterne was facing death. In 1765, Sterne travelled through France and Italy as far south as Naples, and after returning determined to describe his travels from a sentimental point of view. The novel can be seen as an epilogue to the possibly unfinished work The Life and Opinions ...

The Journey was written in a way that requires group members to study each lesson outside of the group time before attending the group. During the group, leaders do not simply go through each question, but they seek to draw out what God has been doing in the lives of the group members as they've studied on their own.

The grand objective of the Savior's gospel was summarized succinctly by President David O. McKay (1873-1970): "The purpose of the gospel is to make bad men good and good men better, and to change human nature." 1 Thus, the journey of mortality is to progress from bad to good to better and to experience the mighty change of heart to have our fallen natures changed (see Mosiah 5:2).
