Neural Nets WIRN10: Proceedings of the 20th Italian

This book contains the proceedings of the annual meeting of the Italian Neural Network Society (SIREN), held in Vietri sul Mare, Italy in 2010. Subjects covered include methodological and implementational topics, which are grouped together into chapters devoted to: models, signal processing and other applications.

Keywords. Network, distance, spectrum, graph theory Introduction Citing a comprehensive review [1], a complex network is a graph whose structure is irregular and dynamically evolving in time. In terms of architectures, Strogatz[2] used the term "complex" to describe a network that is the counterpart of "regular" graphs (chains,

To this aim, we substitute a single soft sensor based on a single neural network with a mixture of several soft sensors, based on different neural network models and a selector.
